N   M
S
National Museum of Singapore

Be A Creative Toymaker:
Rocking Horse

Horse-shaped baby rocking chairs were commonly found in households in Singapore in the 1960s. Has anyone in your family ever owned one, or do you have any similar toys today?

*

Instructions:

1. Colour in your rocking horse.

2. Cut out the rocking horse along the dotted lines.

   (Tip: To create a sturdier structure, stick the template onto a thicker piece of paper or cardboard, such as from a recycled cereal box, before cutting out your rocking horse.)

3. Fold along the bold line to make your rocking horse stand, as shown in the image on the left.*

4. Your rocking horse is now ready!

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF SINGAPORE

NATIONAL MUSEUM OF SINGAPORE

Fold along this line

Fold along this line